Additional Notes:

In support of its strategic agenda, in fiscal year 2011 the Supreme Court/Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) provided the following domestic violence services: staff time and support to various committees addressing issues of domestic violence in the courts; trainers dedicated to teaching court staff domestic violence case processing; programmers to make necessary updates to the statewide case management system (i.e., the protective order module); education for judges on domestic violence at new judge orientation (limited jurisdiction and general jurisdiction); collaborating with system stakeholders to present multi-discipline domestic violence conferences; grant writing activities to fund the 2013 Arizona Domestic Violence Training and other domestic violence education projects. These services are addressed by multiple divisions at the AOC, therefore, they are not broken out as separate budget items.

The Office of the Attorney General distributes $2,713,600 million for state mandated services for victims of crime. There is no way to report how much of these funds are used to support victims of domestic violence.

The Arizona Department of Corrections provides crime impact classes to inmates throughout the prison system, including classes and victim impact speakers on sexual assault and domestic violence. In addition, inmates donate monies to victim organizations around the state including domestic violence and sexual assault organizations through the Department's restorative justice programs.
